

Due to casting variations these dimensions are approximate values. The actual part will be slightly different.

